UNSETTELING

an intriguing exhibition, a collaboration between Sergei Sviatchenko and Signe Vad

"Unsettling" is kind of manifestation, conversation and statement between two Danish artists Signe Vad and Sergei Sviatchenko. The modern images transform into the structure of the exhibition space. Three-dimensional interrelations between surfaces of the walls, large and small images and monitors correlate with the philosophical meaning of unsettling.

The images have their own connections, their own language and relations with the rooms, walls and windows. These connections are graceful and mystic.

The images provide the unusual vision of the world culture, an influx of both individual madness and collective absurdness, but it does not prevent the artists from retaining a sense of meaningfulness in the nonsensical.
